Trauma Focused Caregiver Education Workshop

This eight-module course provides skills and techniques to improve caring for children who have experienced trauma. It includes learning about how trauma impacts child development, and how to help children in your care move past trauma in a healthy way. Promoting safety of the child, family, home, and other environments will be discussed. The course helps to develop honoring and responding to your child’s feelings and behaviors. The course will also provide skills on connecting with resources and becoming an advocate for your child in his or her various environments. Finally, the coursework will highlight the importance self-care and coping with compassion fatigue. All modules are endorsed by the National Child Traumatic Stress Network (NCTSN)

Facilitators:
