SIGNS TO LOOK FOR...

Knowing signs and symptoms of heroin and opiate users could save a life. It could even keep a family together. Here are some physical and environmental signs to be on the look out for:

ENVIRONMENTAL SIGNS OF HEROIN/OPIATE ADDICTION

- * Missing vent screws -An addict will keep drugs close, so consider this when searching the personal space for drugs
- * Burned carpet-Black spots or areas where carpet has been burned, usually from cooked heroin spilling
- * Torn corners of plastic baggies - Often used to distribute heroin
- * Burnt foil/spoons/tea candle tins - Used to cook heroin. They accumulate soot from open flames.
- * Blackened fingers/smudges- Soot from handling burnt foil, spoons
- * Pen parts/straws - Used to snort heroin or crush opiate pills
- * Crushed pills/white powder - Crushing opiates to snort results in intense high. Risk of overdose or death is elevated.
- * Torn Q-tip buds, cut cigarette filters - Used to filter heroin liquid when filling needle
- * Plastic bottle caps - Used to mix heroin powder with water prior to injecting
- * Folded receipts, lottery tickets - Innocent looking packaging used to carry heroin powder
- * Sunglasses case - Or any other obvious object used to disguise contents of a heroin "kit"
- * Blood spots in sink/bedding/clothes - Injecting veins causes bleeding

PHYSICAL SIGNS OF HEROIN/OPIATE ADDICTION

- * Pill bottles - Addiction requires regular dosage and often. Pill bottles will often travel with addicts where they go.
- * Shoplifting/stealing - Money is needed to support habit
- * Losses of appetite/weight - Opiates suppress appetite. Frequent vomiting makes food unappealing.
- * Doctor shopping - Finding new physicians to fill prescriptions
- * Itchy arms/neck/legs - Frequent injections cause skin irritation
- * Wearing long sleeves - To cover needle marks. Suspect when long sleeves seem inappropriate.
- * Constricted/pinpoint pupils - Heroin causes this involuntary effect unlike other drugs that dilate (enlarge) pupils.
- * Anxiety - Looking at phone compulsively, usually when trying to find drugs
- * Behavior change - A sudden change in routine and mood, suppressed emotions
- * Isolation - Social needs are secondary to heroin
- * Nodding off - Addiction saps body of energy. Heroin causes a sleep-like effect
- * Sudden change in hygiene - Sudden hair loss, bad complexion, cold sweaty skin, no interest in appearance

NARCAN and OVERDOSES

Narcan (Naloxone) is a prescription medicine which blocks the effects of opioids on the brain and can reverse an overdose. It cannot be used to get a person high. If a person who has not taken opioids is given Narcan, it will not have any effect on him or her, since there is no opioid overdose to reverse (15).

OVERDOSE? CALL 911 IMMEDIATELY, EVEN IF YOU HAVE ADMINISTERED NARCAN!!

DOS AND DON'TS WHEN RESPONDING TO AN OPIOID OVERDOSE

DO - support the person's breathing by administering oxygen or performing rescue breathing

DO - administer Narcan (Naloxone)

DO - stay with the person and keep him/her warm

DO - call 911 and/or seek emergency medical attention

DON'T - slap or try to forcefully stimulate the person—it will only cause further injury. If you are unable to wake the person by shouting, rubbing your knuckles on the sternum, or light pinching, he or she may be unconscious.

DON'T - put the person in a cold bath or shower. This increases the risk of falling, drowning or going into shock.

DON'T - inject the person with any substance (salt water, milk, "speed", heroin, etc). The only safe and appropriate treatment is Narcan (Naloxone).

DON'T - try to make the person vomit the drugs that he or she may have swallowed. Chocking or inhaling vomit into the lungs can cause a fatal injury.

Treatment Options

DETOX OR DETOXIFICATION IS THE FIRST STEP TOWARD RECOVERY. This is when an individual will stop using heroin and begin to overcome physical dependence on the drug. Often individuals will return to use to stop the pain and adverse effects of the heroin withdrawal. The effects of withdrawal will vary from person to person depending on various factors including the frequency and dose of use as well as the length of time using. Individuals can seek assistance with the withdrawal from a local emergency room, a primary care physician or a detox provider.

RESIDENTIAL TREATMENT is a program in which an individual resides in a facility specific to substance abuse treatment. Individuals are immersed in treatment throughout their day.

OUTPATIENT COUNSELING/THERAPY is individual counseling that is held as often as the individual person needs to address any previous trauma or pain that may have led to and been a result of their drug use. Counseling can also help identify any triggers and assist in preventing relapse.

MEDIATION ASSISTED TREATMENT uses medications; Suboxone, Naltrexone, Methadone or Buprenorphine to alleviate the withdrawal symptoms and physical dependence on heroin. This is a long-term solution that requires years of being on the medication. Medication assisted treatment is combined with counseling and support groups to provide the best chance for a successful recovery.

TRANSITIONAL LIVING OR RECOVERY HOUSES are sober group living environments. There may be support groups or group therapy held in the home. It is a group of individuals living in a structure environment in efforts to maintain sobriety.

SUPPORT GROUPS such as 12 step Narcotics Anonymous are usually peer driven meetings to offer social supports and connections.
